

Caroline Burte, M.S.

Caroline received her Masters in Education at Queens College in New York City in 1990. Her area of specialty and master's thesis is in elementary education and children's socialization skills development. Caroline has worked as an elementary school teacher in both the public and private sectors and is acquainted with the educational and social expectations inherent in those settings.

Caroline has lectured with Dr. Burte on the topics of social skills and academic performance, enhancing social skills development at home and with peers, promoting pro-social skills in varied settings. She is co-author of the article, Cognitive Behavioral, Hypnotic and Pharmacological Interventions in Attention Deficit Disorder.

Caroline is the past Director of The Children's Socialization Program in New York City and on Long Island. She has taught socialization skills in individual and group formats for over 15 years. She has worked with diverse groups of children ranging from learning disabled to gifted children who require social skill enhancement.

Caroline is the Director and lead instructor for The Children's Socialization Program in Boca Raton, Florida. In addition, she is the mother of two children, one in elementary school and one in middle school where she continues to participate on a volunteer bases.

Caroline was recently featured in the 'Unsung Hero's' section of the Sun Sentinel for her continued efforts in helping new families feel welcomed to the Boca Raton community.